ABOUT THE CITY.

"Prince Incognito" at Turnverein Hall.

A RECEIVING HOSPILAL NEEDED.

Items of Interest Gathered About the Streets Yesterday—News Around Town.

It was almost a case of "overflow" at the Turn Verein Hall last night when the members of the guild presented their grand spectacular opera, the Prince Incognito. More than usual interest was attached to the production because all of the performers were recruited from the talent among the German residents of the city, and, naturally, all of their relatives and friends were anxious to see how they would acquit themselves. That it was a glorious success was agreed on all sides. The singing was good, the acting worthy of "the profession," the costumes rich and appropriate, and the stage management excellent. From the moment the curtain went up to the time when it finally hid the players from view, the interest did not flag for a moment, and the ringing applause gave evidence of how heartily the spectators were enjoying themselves. The names of the actors who thus notably distinguished themselves are as follows: Herren Theo. Friese, H. Schroeder, Schrader, Katzenbuckel, Ed. Lotz, Bornemann, Goeppinger, Krempel, Tag, Schroeder, Steeb, Voigtlander, Norm, Reichardt, Legnick, Kirschner, Loetts, Kieselack, Dietz, Bellmann, Bickel, Schwertfeger, Charles Voelker, Mueller, Werner, John Zens, Carl Gutsch, Neuner, Jos. Jedofsky, John Schroeder, Mutuschkewicz and Gratter. The piece was produced under the direction of Herren Stamm and Bornemann with Herr C. Sammann acting as Secretary and Herr John Schroeder as Business Manager.

After the play was over the chairs were piled in a corner and to the tuneful notes of Meine Bros. orchestra, a ball commenced, which was prolonged until long past midnight.

A RECEIVING HOSPITAL.

It is Greatly Needed at the City Prison.

One of the most urgent needs of the city at the present time in the Police Department is a receiving hospital. The subject has been frequently adverted to and a vigorous effort was made during the last municipal administration to have it established; but the Police Commission, knowing that they were soon to be superseded by another organization, did not see fit to take active steps in the matter.

The present condition of things is rather appalling, and if it were not the case that only a few citizens at rare intervals have had occasion to take notice of the matter, such an uproar would have been raised long since that the needed improvement would have been brought about.

The police books show an average of two or three "medical treatment" entries a day. It is a mistake to suppose that these are all vagrants, or people who have not the means to pay for medical attendance. Many of them are, it is true, but the rest are citizens and taxpayers and their wives and children. Suppose some one meets with an accident on the street, and, for the time, is insensible and unable to give his name and residence. If medical attendance of some sort is necessary at once, as is usually the case, the patrol wagon or an ambulance is ordered by telephone, and the person is taken to the Police Station.

In the Station there is not even a cell set apart for use on such an occasion, but the patient is carried into the main hall, which is crowded full of miscreants, for at this season of the year the number of prisoners is usually large. The jail is small for the amount of criminal business done by the city.

The wounded and suffering patient is carried into the crowded and smoky room and laid upon a bench or a dirty cot. There are no conveniences of any kind, such as a surgeon must have at hand. Very little can be done for the patient's comfort, Those who are conveyed there are often in a critical condition, when much depends upon their having prompt medical attendance to consider that end of the question, and as human beings they were certainly entitled to more decent quarters to die in.

Not infrequently women are brought to the station, and if it happens to be at a time when it is unusually crowded, the state of affairs becomes very complicated, and the jailor may be seen wandering round on the outside of the station declaring in savage tones that the whole thing is an outrage and a disgrace—a view of the case entertained quite unanimously by the police force and by the newspaper men, who know the real state of the case.

In the last three months nine men have died in this inner room, surrounded by a gang of smoking, swearing vagrants and toughs. These have been, for the most part, respectable laboring men who have met with fatal injuries at their work or on the streets. Some of them were men who could pay for hospital treatment—if it is necessary.

The matter of a receiving hospital has come up several times in the Council for discussion, but the question of expense has caused it to be postponed. One or two rooms and a single attendant would for the present supply all the needs of the city, and there is no conceivable reason why there should be longer delay in organizing such an establishment.

Back-Slidden.

During his recent stay in this city Mr. Moody made one conversion of which he was very proud. It was a young man by the name of Haley, who, when he came to confess his sins, had a surprising number to own up to. A great deal of interest was taken in the redemption of this stray lamb, and the lamb himself made many promises of amendment.

Yesterday morning, when the young men of the Christian Association went around to the County Jail to hold services, one of the occupants of the lower tank a vagrant, who had given the name of Smith, exhibited a great desire to keep out of sight. He finally confessed to some of his fellows that his name was Haley, and that he had been "converted" by Brother Moody a few nights ago, and now that he was backsliding again he did not wish to be seen. The young man seems to have lost no time in making up for the discomfort of repentance. He is in for five days.

CHURCH NOTES.

Items of Interest Gathered About Services Yesterday.

The churches were well attended throughout the city yesterday. A great many strangers are in town, and quite a number of them attended divine services. The excellent weather gave everybody a chance to get out, and from early morning until late at night the churches were occupied in various ways. The children were at the Sunday schools in larger numbers than usual, and the evening services were well attended.

Rev. Samuel Barwitz, Western Secretary of the Lutheran Home Mission Board, preached at the English Lutheran Church in the morning. This evening the ladies will tender Rev. Mr. Barwitz and Rev. Jacob Clutz a reception at the church parlors, to which the members of the Ministerial Union are invited.

The music at the Cathedral yesterday was a treat to be long remembered. Miss Louisa Marchetti sang two grand solos in the Mass, a prayer by Donireth and "Inflammatus," by Rossini. The Saint Cecilian Choral Society sang Millard

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"The King's Fool" at the Grand Opera House.

THE CONRIED OPERA COMPANY.

Musin to Appear Here Shortly. Other Notes of Local Interest.

Elaborate preparations are being made at the Grand Opera House for the production of the new opera The King's Fool, this week, by the Conried Opera Company. The stage is being altered to permit the use of the original and massive scenery which will be used, and as there are three car-loads of scenic effects, local theater-goers can prepare for a brilliant spectacular as well as musical production. There are 108 artists in the cast, and their picturesquely beautiful costumes add to the brilliancy of the production.

HELEN BERTRAM.

The music of The King's Fool is said to be of a fascinating and romantic character, full of arias of striking originality, tenderness and beauty. There are quite a number of exquisite love songs, as well as warm and sensuous waltz movements that are bound to take a strong hold on popular fancy. The plot is decidedly interesting, and introduces some very novel incidents, particularly the fencing contests betweeen the beautiful lady fencers with their marvelous feats of swordswomanship. The unique marches by a corps of sixty-five young and pretty chorus girls will also constitute an interesting element of attraction, as all the intricate evolutions, have been copyrighted by their designer, Manager Conried.

ADA GLASCA.

Through his representatives, who are now in the city, Mr. Conried states that he intends to give the society and musical folk of Los Angeles the grandest musical spectacular production that has ever been produced on the Pacific Coast, as the Conried Opera Company is the largest operatic organization that has yet made a transcontinental tour.

Mr. Ogden, who is one of Manager Conried's representatives, in conversation with a HERALD reporter yesterday said: "Manager Conried has staged not less than 1,007 productions, and he is enthusiastic over the King's Fool, saying that it is one of the most beautiful musical works that has been composed for the past decade, and this has prompted him to stage the opera in a manner equal to its original production in Vienna. There are eighty lovely girls in the chorus and ballet, and they are in verity all young and lovely, for Manager Conried always makes it a requisite, in engaging his chorus girls, that they shall not only possess good voices, but also be young and beautiful, and to-day he has the largest chorus on the American stage, and every lady in it would be an adornment to the Book of Beauty. You can not say too much in praise of the King's Fool. It is full of ravishing waltz movements and lyrical gems."

DELLA FOX.

Among the principal artists with the Conried Opera Company are Helen Bertram, Ada Glasca, Della Fox and Bettina Gerard. The latter is a daughter of General Albert Ordway, of Washington, and is a well known and beautiful society belle who has just made her début with the Conried Opera Company. There has been a very large demand for seats.

BETTINA GERARD.

The Creation.

There are in this city a great many singers, male and female, who, if given the opportunity, could easily take part in an ambitious performance with credit and profit. The Philharmonic Society of this city have just received the scores of Haydn's beautiful choral masterpiece, the oratorio of the Creation, which they propose to give at their fourth concert about the latter part of May. The best soloists obtainable have already been engaged for the leading roles, but in order to give the chorus parts with the grandeur and massiveness which the greatness of this beautiful semi-religious work demands, the Philharmonic Society invites all singers in the city to participate, free of charge to themselves, without other condition than that the practicings be faithfully attended in the rehearsals of the society, which are held each Friday evening at the hall of the society, 212 South Spring street, in the rear of Gardner's music store. Auxiliary members for the Creation can introduce themselves to the secretary or musical director at rehearsals, and will be assigned chairs. It is urgently requested that such singers as wish to join the chorus, where they will receive the incalculable benefit of several months of choral training with the members of this sterling society, will make their applications immediately, as the chorus must necessarily be closed in a short time, in order to present finished work at the concert. The Creation is so well known, having been given in all the large cities of the world, that it is needless to say more than that it is one of the grandest musical compositions of all ages.

Musin Concerts.

Ovide Musin, the famous violinist, will give two concerts in Los Angeles about the middle of April. Nothing need be said to increase Musin's fame. He is accompanied by Madame Annie Louise Tanner and Mr. Whitney Mockridge. In reference to the latter, the following is a clipping from an Eastern paper: "Mr. Whitney Mockridge, the celebrated tenor, sang for his first number Thomas' 'O Vision Entrancing!' and the audience, from the very beginning, recognized in him a vocalist of rare ability. As a lyric tenor Mr. Mockridge has won for himself—and deservedly so—the proud distinction of the first on the American concert stage. His intonation is remarkably pure, and his voice resonant and full and sympathetic. He was forced to answer to many recalls."

The Coming Circus.

During the amusement vacation last winter, the two largest and most important itinerary exhibitions of America—we may say of the world—by a bold and politic move of their respective managements, effected a consolidation that in point of magnitude and in extent and diversity of attractive features never has had a parallel. This season, consequently, the plants of the Sells Brothers and S. H. Barrett are on the road exhibiting in vast and unprecedented union, and causing most, if not all, contemporaneous traveling shows to stand appalled at this new and formidable Goliath of the equestrian, zoological and hippodromatic world. The formidable coalition is to exhibit here on Thursday, April 11th.

A Carnival of Novelties.

Business at the Museum continues enormous, the present attraction being Paranellis' Carnival of Novelties, who render a highly entertaining programme of the vaudeville class. Several of the features and specialties are new here and elicit hearty applause.

Notes.

The Felisa Waltz, the running air of the King's Fool, is the waltz of the moment in the East.

The female fencers are expected to cause a small sensation when they come on in the King's Fool.

Helen Bertram the "Prince Julius" of the King's Fool, is tall, dark and handsome. She was trained, says rumor, for grand opera, and knows how to sing.

G. M. Welty has arranged a California tour for Mattie Vickers. The tour will cover twenty weeks, opening at Omaha April 15th, and closing September 1st at St. Paul.

"Joseph Jefferson is writing his life. It will be published next fall." Why does a man take the trouble of writing his life after he has had all the trouble of living it?

The report that Mrs. Langtry was married to Freddie Gebhard in New York on Tuesday, the 5th instant, is denied. From the way she jumped on the reporters who interviewed her, she is now called the Tiger Lily, instead of the Jersey Lily.

Among the principal artists with the Conried Opera Company are the three beautiful women, Helen Bertram, Ada Glasca and Della Fox, the accomplished Jennie Reiffarth, W. H. Fitzgerald, John G. Bell, F. Hartman, Harry de Lorme and others.

It is no longer a secret that Mr. James Brown Potter and his talented and pretty wife have split. Divorce proceedings will soon be commenced, the chivalrous Mr. Potter, among other possible things, selecting desertion and incompatibility as the grounds.

Henry E. Abbey is complaining that Mr. A. M. Palmer has tried to get his stars away from him, and that an attempt to open negotiations with Mary Anderson was begun. For such kind of work Mr. Palmer has an excellent man in Wesley Sisson, who is a slick Chicago lawyer.

At the last presentation of Adrienne Lecouvreur by Sarah Bernhardt in Milan, she was called before the curtain at the end to receive a gold medal from the Dramatic Society of Italy. When about to accept it she was seized with an attack of hysterics, and for over an hour was in the hands of the doctors. The audience waited in a state of great excitement until it was over.

Rice's beautiful Evangeline was produced at the Star Theater last Monday for the 4992d time. More than four millions of people have seen it, and about as many millions of dollars have been paid for the privilege. These millions have been paid out for salaries, railroad fares and expenses, and Mr. Rice is yet to scoop his share from the "consomme."

The transformation scene for Bluebeard, Jr., has been designed by Ernest Albert. It is the most elaborate affair of the kind ever seen in Chicago, and comes nearer a realization of the gorgeous transformation scenes at Drury Lane pantomimes than anything this country knows of. It is full of mechanical effects, and when the full scene is revealed scores of pretty women will be seen embodying the theme of the performance.

The huge bouquets which were wont to ornament the ledges of the opera boxes in past seasons are conspicuously absent this year, and flowers are seldom carried, except perhaps a small bunch of violets or heliotrope, rarely worn to the opera. The newest opera glasses are small and light, made generally from aluminium, and supported upon long sticks of tortoise shell, which are often ornamented with the monogram or initial of the owner in tiny silver or gold letters.

An Expert's Mistake.

Mr. S. Grant, of Grant Bros., the railroad contractors, who did most of the work on the California Southern, and who are now employed on the approaches to the Atlantic and Pacific bridge over the Colorado, was in town yesterday. He says that the grading is nearly finished on both sides of the river, after which his labors will be over, as the company itself are doing the bricklaying and erecting the bridge. When asked when the new structure would be finished, Mr. Grant said that the question was a hard one to answer, for although it was hoped to have it ready for the 1st of June unexpected complications have arisen. The expert employed by the Atlantic and Pacific furnished the information of soundings, etc., on which the contract was let for the bridge building. It was found, however, the other day that the point at which the expert had given bedrock was only a nest of boulders, and that a depth of about sixty feet more was necessary. The contractor therefore demands a new agreement, to which arrangement, it is understood, the company is loth to comply, so matters are in statu quo pending a settlement of the difficulty.

Judge Hutton Was Right.

The decision which Judge Hutton rendered on February 1st in the case of Haskell vs. Doty, and against which an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court, has been confirmed by that body. It will be remembered that Charles Haskell, a real estate agent, contracted with Jas. E. Doty to purchase property in Pasadena. A dispute arose, and it is claimed that Haskell refused to pay his note, at the same time, it is alleged, taking the contract away from Doty. Haskell afterwards sued Doty, claiming some $12,000 damages, and after due trial Judge Hutton gave him judgment for $300, which was paid, on the property, but refused to grant him a new trial. Haskell appealed, with the result as given above.

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

Branches That Are to Meet To-Day.

This morning at 10 o'clock the Board of Health will meet, and will probably decide upon the Health Officer and other appointments awarded to it by the new Charter. So far as known, there has not been much of a fight for the position, although the names of Dr. M. Hazen, Dr. McGowan and Dr. Walter Lindley have been mentioned in connection with the matter.

The Council will meet also at 10 o'clock this morning, when it is expected that it will get to work in real earnest. Mayor Hazard will probably send in the names of those whom he desires to be confirmed for positions allowed to be filled by him under the new charter. These are the Superintendent of Buildings, the Water Overseer, the Sealer of Weights and Measures, and five directors of the Public Library. The charter says that these "shall be chosen from the citizens at large, male or female, without regard to their political opinion, but with reference to their fitness for said office, and not more than one member of the City Council shall be at any one time a member of said Board."

One matter of discussion in the Council will probably be the provisions of the new Charter for the prosecution of street work. The Council will have to decide whether it will commence work under the new Charter or under the Vrooman act. In either case the matter is likely to be carried into the courts, to determine which is the law in force here.

At 2:30 this afternoon the Police Commission will meet and it is probable that at that time the names of those who are to act on the police force will be announced. Yesterday the question which interested many of the citizens was as to who will be the next Captain and other commanding officers of the force. It was the general impression that Chief Burns would be allowed to name the one he wants for Captain, although it was rumored that a trade had been made which affected the question. It is said that no one would be chosen who has ever occupied that position before, and that the name, when announced, will be a surprise.

The Savings Department of the State Loan and Trust Company, Bryson-Bonebrake building, will be open every Saturday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock, and every day from 10 to 3 o'clock.

DIED SUDDENLY.

Thomas Sweeting Expires in His Room on Hill Street.

Thomas Sweeting, a coachman in the employ of Mr. Thomas G. Barnard, of 825 South Hill street, died suddenly yesterday noon. He had been complaining for several days of trouble with his stomach, but yesterday morning he appeared to be as well as usual and drove the family to church. When church was over Mr. Barnard noticed that Sweeting was not in waiting with the carriage, and on reaching home Mr. Bernard found that the horses had been put in the stable. A search was then made for Sweeting and he was found lying face downward on his bed in his room. He had evidently been dead for some time. From appearances it was judged that he had sat down on the edge of the bed and had fallen over sideways, burying his face in the bed. The Coroner was summoned and took charge of the body. Sweeting was a Canadian by birth and was well liked by his employer, who said that he was a steady and well-behaved young man of about 35 years of age. The only relative he is known to have in this city is a cousin, who lives on Elmyra street.

THE AUSTRIAN SOCIETY.

A Worthy Celebration of the Second Anniversary.

At the Jefferson-street Park yesterday the members of the Austrian Society celebrated their second anniversary in glorious style. The proceedings commenced at 1 o'clock with a song by the Swiss Society Helvetia Maenner Chor, and this was followed by an address by the president of the organization, in which he dwelt on the origin of the society, the good work it had done, and the glorious prospects before it. A zither potpourri by the Los Angeles Zither Club, was next on the programme, and then came a song by the Society Helvetia, and solos and duets, with zither accompaniments. Dancing wound up the festivities, which were prolonged to a late hour, and were thoroughly enjoyed by all the participants. The officials of the day, who labored zealously to satisfy all, and undoubtedly succeeded in doing so, were as follows:

Reception Committee—Dr. Charles de Szigethy, F. J. Froewss, F. Goleta, D. Silberberg, A. C. Golsch.

Arrangement Committee—J. W. Matuskiewiz, N. Serson, Louis Koller, Jos. Bickel, F. J. Froewss, A. Berlinger, H. Keferstein.

Floor Committee—J. W. Matuskiewiz, Otto Silverburg, H. Keferstein.

The Episcopal Diocese.

The Episcopal Church in this section has been making strenuous efforts to have a diocese with a Bishop at its head established in South California. For this purpose an attempt was made to have the convention of the church meet in this city next May. At one time, a good hope was entertained that this at least, might succeed. But heaven and earth were moved by the members of the church in the North to circumvent the plans of the southern clergy. It seems as if the scheme was already defeated. The HERALD is in receipt of the following letter written to a member of the commission referred to who resides near this city:

"I have just been informed by letter from the north that Bishop Kip has 'asked' for an assistant, and will surrender $2,000, or one-third of his salary, for the salary of the assistant. I suppose my informant (who wrote briefly and hastily), means that he has announced his desire to the Standing Committee. I send you the information as a matter of news.

"The fact is not unexpected, and it will complicate matters in connection with the erection of South California into a separate Diocese. We shall not give in our efforts, however, for a moment, and if we can secure the raising of the endowment fund up to the $30,000 proposed at first, we shall still hope to carry the matter to a successful issue.

"The Convention will now, as a matter of course, be called in San Francisco."

It is a quietus on the plans of a diocese here in all probability, and unless the assistant Bishop is sent to reside in this city, the Church will not gain ground as it ought to do.

In reference to this matter, the following item of news from a reliable source in the church may be of more or less general interest:

The Vestry of St. Paul's Parish, San Diego, have unanimously adopted resolutions to the effect that the use of the church and the rectory belonging to the parish be tendered and given to the new diocese, to be erected in Southern California, as the Bishop's Cathedral and residence, respectively, if he should decide to make San Diego his place of residence.

While this action is proof of the earnestness of San Diegans in the matter, yet the successful working of the new diocese will not be advanced by planting its headquarters so far from the center. What are the Los Angeles Episcopalians going to do?

A Double Wreck.

The passenger train from San Fransico due at the Wolfskill depot at 7:25 yesterday morning, did not arrive until 2:15 P. M. The cause of the delay was in connection with the wreck at Madera, the particulars regarding which appeared in yesterday's HERALD. A subsidary track had been built around the block-aded main line, but when No. 20, the Pacffic overland, attempted to pass over the new structure the engine and bag-gage-car left the rails, thus leaving both the main and side lines blocked. No. 17. had therefore to wait until passageway was made, and in spite of every effort to make up time she was nearly seven hours behind the schedule on reaching this city.

No particulars as to the name of the thoroughbred horse killed at Madera can be found beyond the facts that the animal was worth $10,000 and was consigned to this city. As the railroad company on every occasion does not give a valuation of more than $100 on any horse carried on freight trains, the owner of the animal will doubtless be a heavy loser.

Napoleon Bonaparte.

Old Thomas Frazier, who has a large bee ranch in Laguna Cañon, near Santa Ana, was brought to the County Jail yesterday to be examined for insanity. It has been known for some time that the old man's brain was disordered, but he was not regarded as dangerous until a few days ago, when he undertook to clean out the town of Santa Ana.

The form of his insanity is the conviction that he is an orator who has been especially deputed to tell the world about Napoleon Bonaparte. As the insane cell was not ready for occupancy at the time, Frazier was put down in the lower tank, among the vagrants. He immediately struck an attitude in their midst and began to deliver a spirited speech, rolling off a quantity of absolute nonsense about Napoleon Bonaparte and the origin of species, delivered with a vast amount of fire and apparent eloquence. He will be examined by the Commissioners of Insanity.

Let it be Done.

LOS ANGELES, March 5, 1889.

To the Citizens of Los Angeles:

At a meeting of the citizens of the West Side Improvement Association on West Seventh street last week for the purpose of the immediate raising of funds to push forward improvements on Westlake Park, to get ready for and plant trees and seed lawns during the present winter, the following plan was unanimously adopted:

An assessed contribution of $5 per lot to be levied and, so far as possible, collected on the following property, it being considered that all of said property will be largely benefited by said improvements: Beginning on Orange and West Seventh street at Pearl, thence going west on either side of said streets and widening out until Pico is reached on the south and Diamond street on the north, thence west to the city limits.

The sum of $5 on each lot is certainly a small amount compared with the benefits to be derived, and it is to be hoped it will be universally and heartily responded to. The city has agreed to put in dollar for dollar with this citizens' fund.

If this call is generally responded to, it will furnish enough funds to put said park in condition to furnish a large amount of enjoyment during the coming season, and will soon become a delightful resort. We are now assured by the cable authorities that the road will be running to the Park during the coming summer. The work of raising funds for such improvements and pushing forward the work is not a pleasant task, and no cold water is needed from anyone, as all are interested and should each assist by paying promptly, and also encouraging others to push it ahead. Of the money already expended there, about $3,000 has been contributed in sums of $15, $25 and $50, up to $500 and $600 each, by parties most largely interested.

Subscriptions can be made and paid to S. C. Hubbell, Dr. Bryant, or E. A. Forrester, or their representatives. Contributions from public-spirited parties in any other part of the city, wishing to assist in the development of this beautiful resort, will be thankfully received.

BY ORDER OF PARK COMMITTEE.

Sports of the Week.

The sale of California trotters in New York exceeded even the most sanguine expectations entertained by the horsemen of the Coast as to its results, and by it, California, at one bound, assumes the supremacy as the horse-breeding State par excellence of the Union.

Mr. L. J. Rose must be congratulated on the excellent prices brought by his colts, and the result is but a fitting recompense for a long life spent in the breeding and improvement of trotting horses.

I cannot help thinking that those speculators who, by their heavy investments on the Bard, have brought him to ridiculously short odds on the San Francisco books on the Suburban, are reckoning without their host, as, apart from the fact that, even if fit and well on the day of the race, it is no sure thing that he can carry his impost to victory, for there is always present the possibility of his breaking down in his preparation.

I fancy the light-weight division will come near to supplying the winner of the Suburban handicap, and if I had to pick two horses, whose chances are above the average, I would take Senator Hearst's filly Gorgo and the three-year-old Monmouth. Monmouth, with only ninety-three pounds to carry, is, in my opinion, simply "chucked in" to the handicap, as he has on several occasions shown a fine turn of speed.

A London correspondent of note, recently commenting upon the sale of Ormonde:

"Very possible the Duke sold him on account of his roaring infirmity, as this was hereditary, his dam, Lily Agnes, having developed the same complaint when she was five years old, though this is not generally known. Ormonde has been suffering from an illnes which settled in his throat, and though he is now better, this proves there is a weakness in that part, as the affection commenced in the bowels and only flew to the throat afterwards. The price paid is said to be £17,000, and I hope he may not transmit anything but his excellence to his offspring and leave his infirmity out of the contract."

This would indicate that the Duke of Westminster considered Ormonde's "roaring" infirmity as unfitting him for his own stud. It certainly must have been this or some equally strong reason which could influence that nobleman to deny a place in his stud to the best race-horse England has probably ever known, and it is one which will be seized upon by those opposed to "roarers" as the confirmation by an eminent authority of their theory."

Personally I think it very unsound policy to breed to "roarers."

Messrs. Rodman & Co. hope to open their new poolrooms on or about the 1st of next month, and will then afford local speculators a chance to back their opinions for the big handicap.

ANGLICE.

Bad for Levin.

It is said that Pat Martin, the account of whose death through being crushed by a falling wall appeared in yesterday's HERALD, was the chief witness for the defense in the Levin arson case. Levin, it will be remembered, occupied the saloon under the New United States Hotel which was discovered to be on fire at midnight, some six weeks ago, under suspicious circumstances. Levin claims that he left his establishment at 11 P. M. and walked home with Pat Martin, who was then out of work and was in the habit of dropping into the saloon to pass the evening.

Depot Jottings.

The Burlington free excursion will not leave this city until Thursday, instead of Monday, as before indicated.

The first fish-train of the season was run yesterday to San Pedro, and will be continued weekly hereafter.

Messrs. Steinman & Green have obtained the contract for advertising in the Wolfskill depot. It dates from April 1st.

The earnings of the Atlantic & Pacific for the fourth week in February were $30,113, a decrease of $150 over the corresponding period of last year.

The remains of Mr. M. H. Chandler, who died at Denver last week, were brought into town yesterday on No. 17. A funeral cortege was in waiting at the Wolfskill depot.

The contract for the grading of the first 20 miles of the Salt Lake, Nevada and California road has been let. Work is to begin immediately and is to be completed by June 15th.

A noiseless and smokeless locomotive engine is the latest thing in railroad circles. It perfectly consumes its smoke, and re-uses the water at boiling point, the steam after use in the engine being condensed in a new manner. The invention hails from Palmyra, Wis.

"Never Heard of It."

Mr. Prudent Beaudry has long been noted among his associates for the amount of dry humor he possesses, and a reporter of an evening paper got a good specimen of it the other day. In working up an item he was directed to call on Mr. Beaudry for particulars, so around he went to that gentleman's office.

"Good morning, Mr. Beaudry," was the salutation, and, as the real estate magnate nodded, he continued, "I represent the Express."

"Is that so," was the reply. "How is Mr. Pridham?" (referring to the manager of Wells, Fargo & Co's Express.)

"I don't represent the express package company," was the indignant reply of the scribe, "but the Evening Express newspaper."

"Something new, isn't it?" said Mr. Beaudry, to the disgust of the penciller, who, however, explained the history of his sheet with all the eloquence of which he was capable. He got his news all right, but left the real estate office in a very disturbed state of mind as to whether Mr. Beaudry had really never heard of the Express, or had simply been fooling him.

Tokens of Regret.

Mr. H. B. Wilkins is feeling immensely gratified at the number of letters of regret daily received at the Santa Fe office on account of his resignation. The following document from Messrs. Griffin & Skelley, the fruit shippers, of Riverside, is indicative of the tenor of these missives:

H. B. Wilkins, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—We have learned with sincere regret the intelligence of your resignation from your position with the California Southern Railway. We are speaking as shippers, from a purely selfish standpoint and must say that we greatly fear both the Santa Fe system, as well as Griffin & Skelley, will feel your loss severely. You are the only railway man who ever fully appreciated the wants of Riverside raisin and orange shippers, or who ever took the trouble to give us what we needed. Wishing you all success and happiness in your new sphere of operations, wherever it may be, we remain, yours truly,

GRIFFIN & SKELLEY.

The Rosecrans Road.

The members of the Redondo Beach syndicate announce that they expect to have the line from Rosecrans to the beach completed and in operation by June 1st. A little grading has already been done, but there are several right-of-way matters to be settled up before everything gets in full swing. The road will be a motor one, and will be operated with hourly trips if the business can support such a service.

All danger of drinking impure water is avoided by adding 20 drops of the genuine Angostura Bitters, manufactured by Dr. Seigert & Sons. At all druggists.

Expand the Mind

By seeing as much as you can of the world. But ere you set out either as a tourist, commercial traveler or emigrant—whether you go by rail, steamship or steamboat, provide yourself with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which the traveling public recognizes as the finest medical safeguard and preventive of sea sickness with which any one journeying by land or water can be provided. It furnishes to the western pioneer adequate protection against malaria, rheumatism, and those disorders of the bowels which miasma tainted water begets. Its sedative effect upon a stomach perturbed by the rocking of a ship is truly magical, and it is a capital appetizer and nerve invigorator. Excellent is it for biliousness and kidney inaction, and it counteracts, in a remarkable degree, the effects of fatigue, physical or mental. After wetting and exposure in inclement weather, it should be used as a preventive.

MONDAY, MARCH 25, 1889.

IT IS evident that English capitalists have no faith in the ultimate success of Prohibition in this country. A short time ago a British syndicate bought up a number of breweries in Boston, and now the same syndicate has bought the plants of three extensive breweries in Rochester.

EASTERN capital is coming in to the upper country to put up creameries. Here is about the best place on the continent for such an enterprise. The Alamitos Ranch alone would support the biggest creamery in America. Such a section as this should not import its butter, as we are doing now.

THE fact that money is more plentiful here than it has been, and that rates of interest are rather more easy than they have been, will materially aid in the development of this section. Those who can offer good security can get money at from six to ten per cent per annum according to the sum required and the time for which it is borrowed.

POLICE affairs are becoming as interesting as they were when our whilom friends of the old commission were making things lively for each other. Mayor Hazard in the HERALD this morning addresses an open letter of great point and pungency to the Messrs. Knox and Lindley, the recalcitrant members who kick because they find themselves in the unfortunate position of two to three. The prospects are for an exceedingly interesting regime in this important office.

THE pictures given by the Sacramento Bee of the last days of the session of the Legislature at Sacramento are, it is to be hoped, exaggerated. Yet, allowing for the temptation to run into pictorial writing, there must have been something to justify these strictures. This disgraceful state of things is not restricted to any one party. The overwhelmingly Republican Legislature which signalized the inauguration of Governor Perkins's administration really set the standard for succeeding bodies. The debris steal and all its attendant circumstances were the most infamous things ever recorded in this Commonwealth. The people must make a great effort and take an interest in their own political affairs. Biennial sessions of the Legislature have the one distinctive drawback of allowing the voters time to forget how they have been outraged.

WATERMAN'S flight from Sacramento takes the character of an abdication, when we consider the circumstances attending it. It is the Governor's duty to remain at the Capital for the constitutional ten days after the adjournment of a Legislature, so as to enable the friends or enemies of measures that have passed both Houses to furnish arguments in favor or against them. But Waterman has cut off all chance of discussion by running away before the time had half expired, leaving a large number of passed bills that will not become laws. This is exercising the pocket veto by the wholesale, and is a very cowardly mode of getting away from a disagreeable duty. Some of the measures he has left unsigned are not only meritorious but of exigent public necessity. His Excellency Waterman and his Serene Highness Boruck, have made a pretty mess of the Executive Department of the State.

EARNEST and persistent work needs to be done in many directions towards the developing of the resources of Los Angeles county and of Southern California generally. Only the merest beginning of this good work has yet been done. The merest preliminary steps have been taken towards making of this section the tithe of what it is capable. The present county of Los Angeles alone is capable of supporting a million souls. Its generous soils, warmed by such genial skies will in the coming time be worth prices which seem to us now fabulous. Los Angeles city should in five years have a population of upwards of a quarter of a million. In a decade it ought to be one of the best built cities on the continent, and containing half a million people. It is necessary to advertise the attractions of the section of all kinds more liberally and in more diverse ways than this work has yet been done. The great annual fair to exhibit our resources ought, by all means, to be established. The city should put up a hotel, the finest and most luxurious in the land. The community should become railroad builders on their own account, and hold this city as the center of all railroad traffic in the Southwest for all time to come. God helps the man and the community that helps itself.

Ananias Again.

The Atchison, Kansas, Daily Globe, under date of March 18th, has the following dispatch purporting to come from Los Angeles:

Southern California has experienced a deluge the last four days, and the climax came yesterday in a terrific cloud-burst over the village of Ventura. The water rushed down a cañon, flooding the town and sweeping away many houses. Two Chinamen were drowned and scores of people had narrow escapes. The business center of the town was washed away and the loss will approximate $100,000. The Southern Pacific track was washed out for a distance of nearly a quarter of a mile. Serious trouble is reported on all the railroads. A passenger train was wrecked near Ensenada, but none of the passengers were injured. Two trainmen, John Halpin and William J. Thompson, were badly hurt. Two fishermen were drowned near San Pedro last night. A big landslide is reported on the Santa Fe Railroad, and eighteen carloads of Boston excursionists are detained in the mountains on account of washouts. No estimate of the great damage can be made until the floods subside, as the wires and roads are all under water. The San Gabriel river is rapidly rising and is overflowing the levees. It is probable that the lower half of Los Angeles will be inundated. It is impossible to form any estimate at present of the damage that will result from the overflows. Eight inches of water have already fallen. One man was drowned at Newhall.

Then comes the Nashville Herald, under date of March 16th, two days earlier than the Atchison lie, with this dispatch, which also pretends to have been sent from Los Angeles:

A frightful storm passed over this region this afternoon, doing awful damage to life and property.

The storm came up with terrible suddenness. A great black cloud passed across the heavens. The roar of the wind filled the air like mighty thunder.

Rain fell in deluges, the streets became raging rivers, and swept away small buildings. Several children were caught in the streets, and were drowned. Falling buildings crushed others.

Only meagre reports have been received to-night from the country, which show that the destruction there was terrible.

Property loss will foot up half a million dollars. Thirty people are reported killed.

The Nashville Belial is much more tropical in the play of his imagination than the Kansas Ochiltree. Yet both these Ananiases redivivi are above the average. It will be noted that there are two days' difference as to the date on which the alleged catastrophe is said to have taken place. Another funny part of the affair is the wrecking of a train at Ensenada. There is no place of that name this side of the Mexican line, and the only place so named in Lower California is 150 miles south of the line. There is not a bit of track, an engine, nor a car within 200 miles of Ensenada. The place is the port of landing for the mines, about which there was recently so much ado. Here is how this resurrected Ananias got possession of the name.

There is no probability that such a dispatch ever was sent over the wires from this section. If there was, an outraged community would be fully justified in ferreting out the malicious knave, or the idiotic imbecile who sent it, and riding him out of town on a knotty rail and protected from the cold by a liberal application of tar and feathers.

Here, of course, we all know there is not a word of truth in the story. The recent storm was rather severe for this section. In four days about seven inches of rain fell in the city. In no day of twenty-four hours did three inches fall. There was not a house even shaken or at all inundated; there was not a man, nor a child, nor hardly a full-grown rat drowned by any flood.

A NUMBER of our Republican contemporaries are objecting to one of Thomas Nast's cartoons in the Examiner because it holds up Harrison's administration as a "boodle" one. It is probable that the President himself is honest and respectable in his impulses, and we do not intend to say anything unpleasant about him until he has shown that he is sinning against knowledge, but the indications thus far all point to a corrupt and spendthrift regime. When men like Wanamaker and Windom, to say nothing of Blaine, are appointed to the cabinet, there is every reason to suppose that there will be playing at fast and loose with the national finances. The superior abilities of the last named gentleman have somewhat obscured his Mulligan letters and Peru performances, but his very presence in the cabinet is, of itself, sufficient proof that trouble is ahead, and that a severe and Roman-like integrity, of the Cincinnatus and Cato order, is likely to be conspicuous by its absence. But there is an objection of another kind to Mr. Nast's cartoons which most Democrats, at least, will recognize, and that is, that, in the days when that individual had marked skill as a caricaturist, he was the meanest, most malignant and most persevering enemy of the Democratic party and of everything Democratic. Mr. Nast, through some mysterious agency, has lost the sprightliness and inspiration that once made him valuable to Harper's Weekly, and it is to be regretted that his present efforts against a Republican administration have not a tithe of the artistic cleverness that so often annoyed Democrats in the days of his evil ascendancy. People who can be hired to lampoon irrespective of principle are only to be tolerated when they have superlative qualifications, which has not been the case for years with Nast.

THE new Minister to France, Mr. Whitelaw Reid, is, to a remarkable degree, a beneficiary of the old adage that it is better to be born lucky than rich. He happened to be high up in the management of the great Tribune newspaper at the time when Horace Greeley, in an ill advised moment, permitted himself to be run for President. Mr. Greeley emerged from that conflict utterly broken down, mentally and physically, although still nominally the editor of the Tribune. It is said, on what appears to be good authority, that the finishing stroke was given to the old gentleman by Reid's refusal, as managing editor of the Tribune, to allow a short editorial written by Greeley to appear in the journal to which he had given world-wide celebrity and of which he was the creator. Mr. Greeley, when he heard of this action of Reid's, went out to Chautauqua and lay down and died, utterly broken-hearted. The paper then passed under the absolute control of Reid, and with very disastrous results to the stockholders. Its shares during Greeley's lifetime had sold for $800, or eight times their face value. They soon ran down to a comparatively small figure, and were bought up by Jay Gould, who owned the paper for years. The building of the famous Tribune tall tower completed the ruin of the shareholders, who were substantially all frozen out. Soon after the arrival of Mr. D. O. Mills in New York city as a permanent resident, Mr. Reid married his young and lovely daughter, and it is understood that the Gould stock quickly found a purchaser. The Tribune has since measurably regained its prosperity. Minister to France, owning, it is understood, the controlling stock in one of the leading journals of the United States, with a father-in-law reputed to be worth $80,000,000, Mr. Reid's lines would seem to have been cast in pleasant places.

THE precise relations existing between Governor Waterman and his Private Secretary, Marcus D. Boruck, are just now the subject of a great deal of discussion in the press. The general impression seems to be that the Governor is honest but bungling, and that the Secretary has made his position inure to all possible advantage to himself. Of late, Mark has developed a very belligerent temper, is said to have loaded himself up with a formidable looking gun, and is ready to give battle to all comers, editors and reporters preferred. Meanwhile, his "Accidency" is holding levees in San Diego, leaving Sacramento in charge of his truculent subordinate. As the Secretary is a stalwart, it looks as if he will hold the fort, and seekers after notarial positions and pardons for malefactors should remember that he knows just where the great seal of State is kept, no matter where the Governor may be sojourning.

IT HAS all along been assumed by the Republican press that the Republicans carried West Virginia, and that the resistance to Goff's assumption of the Governorship of that State has arisen from a Democratic factional spirit, It is somewhat significant that of some seventy odd Republicans arrested and indicted for fraudulant voting in West Virginia, all except two or three pleaded guilty. This does not look like Democratic fraud. A very marked circumstance of the campaign in that State is that Steve Elkins, who with James G. Blaine, is heavily interested in West Virginia coal and iron mines and railways, spent his time in that section for some months before the election. What Elkins don't know about colonizing voters and instigating sharp practices of all kinds nobody else need to try to learn.

THE nomination of Fred Grant as Minister to Austria means more than appears on the surface. The stalwart defection in New York caused the defeat of Blaine in 1884. It was largely through the Plumed Knight's interposition that Col. Grant was nominated for Secretary of State in the Empire State in 1887. Blaine undoubtedly wishes to heal this breach, and it is not improbable that he does so with an oblique view to running for President as the Republican candidate in 1892. His methods are quite Mephistophelian, and the interests of the nation would count for very little in the balance. The new Minister to Austria has absolutely no qualifications for the post, if we throw aside the fact that he is the son of his father. The interests of the public service are to be made to yield to the exigencies of Republican politics.

THE Tribune assures us that "before the first half of the first week of the Republican city government has passed, the party finds itself demoralized and divided." This humiliating confession of a staunch Republican organ is a stinging rebuke to the action of a majority of the people at the recent election. It is an admission that the city is entering upon a period of official incompetency and mismanagement. At all events the split in the Republican camp is evidently a very serious one, and we may look for all sorts of working at cross-purposes, resulting, inevitably in the end, to the great detriment of the important public interests so unwisely confided by the people to the Republican party. It will be interesting to note the widening of the breach and the clashing of the Republican clans.

THE great and only Sam Davis is being pressed by the Nevada delegation for Minister to the Sandwich Islands. If Sam should turn out half as good a diplomat as he has proved to be a newspaper man, the Bismarcks and other big wigs of the European courts would have to look to their laurels. It is a tradition that, when King Kalakaua was in San Francisco, Davis, who was then on the Chronicle, was entrusted with the responsible function of showing his majesty the sights of the "wickedest," and that he did it so effectually that the Chronicle heard nothing of him until 1 o'clock of the following day. He would doubtless receive an effusive welcome at Honolulu.

Sweet Baby.

Baby in its cradle sleeping—
Angel child!
Smiles about its face are creeping
Sweet and mild
Would that I could share its dreaming,
See its heavenly visions gleaming,
Ah, how pure the baby's seeming,
Undefiled.

Fairest gems thou hast, replacing
Earthly toys,
Rarest flowers thy realm are gracing
Rich thy joys—
Holy Mose! the kid is waking,
Night melodious he'll be making,
What a raking, shaking, quaking—
Stop! that!! noise!!!

WESTERN RAINFALL.

An Exhaustive Report From General Greely.

SOME DELUSIONS DISPELLED.

The "Great American Desert" and the Rainless "Staked Plains" Found to be Myths.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—In pursuance to a resolution introduced by Senator Mitchell, there has been printed a letter from General Greely, of the Signal Service, upon the rainfall of the Pacific Slope and the Western States and Territories. Accompanying General Greely's letter is a paper by Lieutenant Glassford, of the Signal Service, discussing the causes of wet and dry seasons, the abundance and deficiency of the rainfall in different portions, the summer rainy season in Arizona, etc., fortified with charts and tables exhaustive of the subject. These tables cover observations from 661 stations of an average length of seven years and three months, and the charts show separately the maximum, minimum and mean rainfall for every month and year. The terms of the resolution made it Gen. Greely's duty to "express his views upon the importance and value of these charts and tables, and also, inferentially, to express his opinion on the question of recurring droughts in Texas, and in relato the vexed question of the increasing or decreasing rainfall in the arid or subhumid regions of the United States." Pursuant to this instruction, Gen. Greely discusses the matter at great length. He says one great result which must redound to the benefit of the trans-Mississippi and trans-Missouri country by the publication of these official data, will be the dispelling of the erroneous and injurious impressions which long prevailed regarding this extensive region. In the early part of the century this territory was viewed as hardly suited for a civilized man; its enormous plains and vast mountains being represented as arid and desert regions, unsuited for civilization and, in many places, even unfit for pasturage. Adventure, exploration and other circumstances have hurried the frontier westward, until the myths of the great American Desert to the north, and of the rainless staked plains to the south, have practically disappeared. It is none the less true, however, that the latest and most reliable American text book of meteorology of this country speaks of the areas "between the Sierra Nevadas and the Rocky Mountains, including portions of Utah, New Mexico and California," as "a region which is almost entirely destitute of rain," and that further, on the east side of the Rocky Mountains "the country is a barren desert, almost without rain."

Another great value of the charts is their bringing to general attention and consideration the very extensive areas of country in what has been known as the arid regions, where late and careful observations have shown the rainfall to be far greater than had been usually attributed to them, and thus transferred these to the lists of sub-humid districts.

The chief Signal officer puts it forward as his opinion that, when Idaho, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona shall have been covered with rain gauges as completely as New York or New England, the final outcome of observation will indicate that the actual average of rainfall for the whole arid region is now understated by the census charts from 20 to 40, and of these 10 to 15 per cent.

General Greely notes that observations at sixteen stations indicate an increase in the rainfall, while eight show a decrease. These stations are located in Texas, Nevada, New Mexico, Indian Territory, California, Arizona and Kansas.

In conclusion, he says: "The Chief Signal officer does not hesitate to express his opinion that the trans-Mississippi and trans-Missouri rainfall is slightly increasing, as a whole, though in certain localities it may be slightly decreasing from causes set forth above, and it seems most proper for him to put forth his strong conviction, even if it be not a certainity, that when, as in this case, it will tend to reassure the agricultural population in the lately drought-stricken districts of the West, there appears to be no possible reason to believe that the scanty rainfall of the past year or two will not be followed by an increasing precipitation in the next few years, which will maintain the annual rainfall of these sections at the average, or even increase it. It is believed that the interests of the entire country will be subserved by the publication of a large edition of the rainfall charts and tables accompanying this report."

A RAILROAD LEASED.

The N. P. R. R. Obtains an Outlet Into Chicago at Last.

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—A reporter of the Enquirer to-day learned from a well-known railway man that the Northern Pacific Railway Company has at last secured control of the Wisconsin Central railroad, and through it an entrance to Chicago. The Enquirer will give the following details as to the lease: C. C. Wheeler, formerly General Agent of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road, has spent three months in the examination of the property, connections and accounts, of the Wisconsin Central Company. He went over every mile of the main line and its allied branches, and inquired into its resources and traffic connections. The result of his investigations has been compiled in his report, and will be submitted to the Board on Tuesday. In it he recites the reasons why the acquisition of the Wisconsin Central Road will be an advantage to the Northern Pacific Company. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, the Northwestern and St. Paul, and other lines entering Chicago, are reaching out westward for traffic, and will, in his opinion, ultimately reach the Pacific coast and become transcontinental lines. The Canadian Pacific has a Chicago outlet, and so have all the Pacific coast lines. If the Northern Pacific is to maintain its position it must have equal facilities, and Wheeler sees no other line but the Wisconsin Central that can afford the Northern Pacific the needed outlet. The road, he says, is in first-class condition. It possesses good tollings, has a local trade, and is self-supporting. With the influence of the Inter-State Commerce law, he believes the road will be a profitable one. The lease is for a comparatively short time, either for thirty-three or ninety-nine years; the period has not been determined. It is an operating lease, that is, the Northern Pacific is to operate the road and pay a rental of 35 per cent. of the gross receipts. Of course, all the Northern Pacific's Chicago business will be thrown upon the Wisconsin Central lines instead of being divided up among all the others.

The lease will add to the Northern Pacific system 767 miles of road, including the 344 miles of the Wisconsin Central Railway, 187 miles of leased lines and 236 of affiliated roads with it. It also comes into possession of extensive terminal facilities at the Chicago and Great Western depot, which are constantly increasing in value, as well as very valuable terminals at Milwaukee.

A BREAK FOR FREEDOM.

The Boys In a House of Refuge Raise a Riot.

CINCINNATI, March 24.—This morning thirty-five out of a hundred and sixty boys at the House of Refuge made a break for liberty. They were from 10 to 15 years old, and were under four leaders, the chief of whom was a negro boy. The boys marched in a body, armed with baseball bats, to the front entrance, where four guards were stationed, and demanded free passage, but were driven back. Then they used the bats and rocks, breaking in the windows and doing other damage. They were so noisy that their whooping and shouting excited and alarmed the people in the streets, and caused wildly exaggerated rumors to spread, which made the police send two patrol wagons, with fifteen officers, to the scene. In less than three-fourths of an hour from the outbreak the four ringleaders were locked up in their rooms, and everything was quiet. No one was hurt. The ringleaders were participants in a similar outbreak two years ago.

A RUSH FOR LAND.

Double Filings Made on Lands Thrown Open for Settlement.

HELENA, Mont., March 24.—The land about Red Lodge, on the recently opened Indian reservation, was thrown open for settlement. Parties representing New York, St. Louis, Chicago, San Francisco, and Helena capitalists, were present, as well as the Union Pacific and Northern Pacific attorneys. The most extensive and easiest mined coal lands in Montana are located at this point and the result is that the same land has been filed on as agricultural and coal. To-day was the busiest ever known in the history of the Bozeman Land Office, the receipts from filing being $76,000. It seems probable that there will be a contest over every filing made.

THE HAWAIIAN MISSION.

The Humorist of Carson City Is Likely to Get It.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—There are three Nevada applicants for the position of Minister resident at the Sandwich Islands—R. M. Daggett, who formerly held that position, ex-Governor Kincaid and Samuel Davis. The Nevada delegation have held several meetings in an effort to unite upon a candidate. It is believed that Davis was agreed upon this afternoon.

Train Captured by Tramps.

PITTSBURG, March 24.—A large party of tramps boarded a freight train on the Pittsburg and Erie Railroad, near Alliquippa, Pa., last night, and, for five hours, held the train, refusing to allow the crew to move it unless permitted to ride on it. A telegram was sent to Pittsburg for assistance, and a special train, with officers, went to the rescue. Twelve of the tramps were arrested, but a large number of the others escaped.

A Well Fought Mill.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 24.—A prize fight for a purse of $500 took place near here this morning between Jack Burgess, of Boston, and Tom McDonald, of Elkhart, Ind. It was a vicious one, and McDonald was knocked out in eight rounds by a terrific right-hander, which prostrated him with a broken jaw.

Clearing-House Returns.

BOSTON, March 24.—A table compiled from dispatches to the Post, from the managers of the leading clearing-houses of the United States, shows that the total gross exchanges for the week ended March 23 were $1,115,989,076; an increase of 11.5 per cent. compared with the corresponding week last year.

A Building Firm Bankrupt.

MARQUETTE, Mich., March 24.—Owing to heavy losses incurred in the construction of the branch State Prison at this place, the building firm of Wahlman & Gripp assigned Saturday. The liabilities are about $100,000. The firm had been largely engaged in construction in Lake Superior county for seven years.

Fatal Fall Down a Hold.

SEATTLE, W. T., March 24.—Charles Parson, second mate of the steamer Puebla, fell down the hatchway of the vessel while she was lying at the wharf, in this city, at noon to-day. His skull was fractured, and he lived but a few hours afterwards.

Cut To Pieces on the Track.

BAKERSFIELD, March 24.—Early this morning James Rand, 55 years of age, a pumper for the Southern Pacific Company here, while walking on the track, was struck by a freight train and cut to pieces. Five cars and the engine passed over him.

A Hung Jury.

NEVADA CITY, March 24.—The jury in the case of George Lord, on trial for complicity in election frauds, having failed to agree, were discharged to-day, after being out over forty hours. The jury stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction.

Another Lovesick Idiot.

WORCESTER, Mass., March 24.—In a tenement house to-day Bert Ermston shot Emily Schenkly, mortally wounding her, and then put a bullet into his own head, causing instant death. The woman refused to marry kim.

Another Placer Find.

HELENA, Montr, March 24.—Placer gold is said to have been discovered in the bluffs on the Missouri river opposite Townsend. A man named McGreggan made the discovery.

A Railroad Magnate Dead.

PITTSBURG, March 24.—Hon. John Scott, President and one of the receivers of the Alleghany Valley railroad, died this morning of pneumonia, in the 69th year of his age.

Death of a Musician.

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 24.—John W. Moore, aged 82, formerly a publisher and writer on the subject of music, died yesterday.

To the Front.

Chili is maintaining her reputation as the most enterprising nation in South America. Her latest progressive move was to contract for 10,000,000 ties and a large quantity of timber from the region about Puget Sound. The material is to be used in constructing a transcontinental railroad through Chili and the Argentine Republic, and for building several new lines in the mining regions, and one up the coast into Peru.

BISMARCK'S PENAL BILL.

The Stringency of its Several Clauses.

A STAND AGAINST SOCIALISM.

Provision for Permanent Expulsion of Those Found Guilty of Lese-Majesty.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

BERLIN, March 24.—The new penal bill, according to the newspapers, is much briefer than the anti-Socialist bill which it replaces. It tends to remove the distinction hitherto held regarding Social Democrats; provides for more stringent dealing with political crimes and insults to the Sovereign, abolishes permanent expulsion by mere police authorities, and provides for short or long expulsion, after trial of men for attacks on the fundomental bases of the State organization—the monarchical system of government and the sanctity of marriage and property. The most important new provision authorizes the permanent interdiction of periodicals and papers guilty of offences against the law, and the dissolution of societies and meetings. It is stated that the bill will be discussed secretly by the Bundesrath, and that it will be submitted to the Reichstag before Easter.

WEBSTER'S EQUIVOCATION.

He Willfully Misled the Commons as to Pigott's Letter.

LONDON, March 24.—Lewis, solicitor for the Parnellites, calls attention to the amazing and important misstatement of French to Pigott, which was made by Attorney-General Webster in the Commons, Friday last. He says that the letter referred to by Webster as having been placed in Sir Charles Russell's hands five days before Pigott's appearance in the witness-box was a letter from Soames, solicitor for the Times, to Pigott, and that the two other letters from Pigott to Soames, in which Pigott admitted that he feared to undergo cross-examination, were withheld by the Times' lawyers. Lewis says it is a fact that neither the counsel nor the solicitor for the Parnellites had notice of the existence of these two letters until Pigott had decamped.

Attorney-General Webster, replying to Lewis, writes that he believes that he handed to Sir Charles Russell the letters to which Lewis refers, but that he will have to refer to his shorthand notes for confirmation. In any case, he says, the matter is not important, because none of the letters would have justified the withdrawal of Pigott from the witness box, and, further, Sir Charles Russell elected not to have the letters read until he was in the box.

CANADIAN CONSTERNATION.

Harrison's Behring Sea Manifesto a Surprise Party.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 24.—A sensation has been created here by the issue of President Harrison's proclamation declaring the Behring Sea a closed sea. This action of the American Government proved a complete surprise to the members of the Government—who decline to be interviewed. It is stated here that the Cleveland Administration and the British Government had been negotiating for two years past in regard to the claim for compensation for the seizure of three British sealing vessels in Behring Sea.

According to the Code.

PARIS, March 24.—De Loulay and Gerault Richard fought a duel to-day. The former was slightly wounded in three places. Richard had attacked De Loulay in a newspaper article, charging him plagiarizing the work of M. Duquet.

ROME, March 24.—In a duel with swords to-day, Deputy Cavalotti slightly wounded Signor Corveto, Under Secretary of the War Department. The trouble grew out of a personal dispute.

The Case Against Klein.

BERLIN, March 24.—The Cologne Gazette says that neither criminal nor civil procedure is applicable to the case of Klein in America. It only remains for Germany to bring evidence against him before the tribunal of Apia, including the American Consul. It may be assumed that when Herr Steubel, the newly appointed German Consul, arrived in Apia, he satisfied the people by making no demand from Mataafa.

A Fine Bridge Swept Away.

LIMA, via Galveston, March 24.—Verrugas bridge, the most famous of the bridges on the Oroyo railway, has been swept away by a flood. The bridge was 108 feet high, and its original cost was 400,000 soles. The destruction of the bridge has rendered transportation from that part of the country almost impossible. It will probably be a long time before it will be rebuilt.

He Believes in the Mines.

POMONA, March 24.—D. H. Cummings has returned to his home at Cucamonga from the Santa Clara region. He has been there for four weeks, and returns to sell or mortgage his large landed property near Cucamonga, in order to return with it for operating with others in a quartz ledge twenty miles south of the original discovery of the placer mines.

Soames' Safe-Conduct to Pigott.

LONDON, March 24.—Soames' letter to Pigott contained a promise that no harm would come to Pigott through the latter's testifying before the Parnell Commission. There was no allusion in the letter to the character of the evidence to be given by Pigott.

Emin's All Right.

CAIRO, March 24.—Mahommed Beraivi, who brought the news of the victory of Emin Pasha over the Dervishes, says that it was reported that Emin was in good health, and that all his people and some European travellers were with him in Bahr Gazel.

To Make Terms With England.

"A REVOLUTION MUST COME."

"Whether it be Peaceful or Sanguinary Makes No Difference, We Must Have it."

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

CHICAGO, March 24.—"We want a revolution; whether peaceful or bloody, makes no difference, a revolution must come." These were the words addressed by the dusky anarchist Mrs. Lucy Parsons, to her audience of 250 men and women, gathered at Twelfth street Turner Hall, to celebrate the eighteenth anniversary of the Paris Commune, last night. "I have but one object in life," screamed Mrs. Parsons, "that is to make you discontented, to make rebels of you all." After talking in a desultory manner on the social problem and how it was approaching a crisis, she continued: "When the time comes, and it surely will, let us use all means to bring about a revolution. Let us act in these times of peace! Will it pay? Go ask the mothers and orphans of the 7,000 who fell in the streets of Paris if it pays! These who fell were martyrs and the path we tread is overstrewn with martyrs. But all the blood should not flow on one side. There are, my friends, stirring times before us. There are those who would slay us in cold blood, but let us not, as they were in Paris, be guided by namby-namby philosophers. Let us have generals. I don't wish to be understood as wanting to incite you, but when the time comes we will carry the human race into a new channel. We live in a stirring time, and no one knows when the first shot will be fired. Let us be first discontented, then it only needs a handful of men and women to revolutionize the world. Then we shall have liberty. If you who are chained down to slavery had got one idea of liberty, you would rise up and be men. I am not seeking for martyrdom, but they will not let me go on talking much longer. But I am willing to spend my last days in Joliet, or have my breath strangled out of me in the jail. I have but one favor to ask of you, and that is, keep the torch of liberty alive. When I know that the ranks are filled I will be ready to go. We want a revolution. Whether it is peaceful or bloody makes no difference. A revolution must come."

She concluded as follows: "As while we would fight and die—yes, we mean it!—die, if need be, to maintain the honor and integrity of that grand old flag, we will ever cherish the tenderest recollections of the 'lost cause,' and the flag that was never destined to float among the emblems of the nations."

THE CALIFORNIA LEAGUE.

Opening Games of the Season at San Francisco and Sacramento.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—The California League inaugurated its championship season of 1889 at the Haight-street grounds this afternoon by a game between the champion Stocktons and San Francisco. It is estimated that there were between 10,000 and 15,000 people present. Taking the game as a whole, it was one of the prettiest contests seen for a long time at the Haight street grounds. Some very fine batting was done by members of both teams, and the fielding of Levy, Perrier, Stockwell, Selna, Hanell and Moore could stand comparison with that of members of the National League. The fact that the San Franciscos defeated their opponents by such a close score as five to three, and played an errorless game, aroused such enthusiasm in the breast of Manager Harris that he grasped the hand of each member of his team and invited them to a French dinner. Donahue played short stop for San Francisco, and played it well. Con Doyle, Manager Harris' third baseman, made his first appearance on the grounds, as also did second baseman Behan, short stop Stickney and catcher Fairhurst, of the Stocktons. The Eastern men showed up to good advantage, and the indications are that before the season is fairly over they will have gained the confidence of the California public. The features of the game were the batting of Stickney, Harney, Stockwell, Selna and Sweeny.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—San Franciscos, 5; Stocktons, 3.

AT SACRAMENTO.

SACRAMENTO, March 24.—The season of the California Baseball League opened here to-day. The inaugural game was between Oakland and Sacramento and gave entire satisfaction, which was hardly expected, taking into consideration that the players were not in their best form. A crowd of about 3,000 people witnessed the game, and frequently cheered the players. At the end of the ninth inning the score was tied, and necessitated playing two more innings. In the eleventh inning O'Neil was distinguished for heavy batting in driving one out to the right for 3 bags, Canill scoring, and concluding in favor of the Oaklands.

SACRAMENTO, March 24.—Oaklands, 8; Sacramentos, 7; eleven innings.

A MOUNTAIN FEUD.

Two Families of "Bad Men" of Kentucky Fight It Out.

CHICAGO, March 24.—A dispatch to the Times from Pineville, Ky., says the feud between the Sowders and Turner factions in Bell county, Kentucky, has broken out again and the prospects are that there will be much bloodshed. The feud has so many ramifications that it is impossible to tell where it originated or why it continues to exist. A section of the parties have been in arms at Barbourville for some time past. The fight began early last week over a quarrel between two representatives of the opposing factions. Friends of the family flocked to their assistance. For several days, early in the week the mountains in the vicinity of Barbourville were alive with determined men armed to the teeth. The inevitable battle was fought, in which it is said more than five hundred shots were fired and a number of people were wounded, but the injured were spirited away, and their number cannot be learned. A Sheriff's posse was sent to arrest the rioters, but they were fired upon and driven back to Barbourville. It was then that Judge Cull himself headed a posse and made for the mountains. Another pitched battle resulted, but the Judge's party was strong as well as armed, and were victorious, arresting five of the desperadoes. Among them were two of the Messers and Galloway Carnes, a brother of Deputy-Sheriff of the county. The Sheriff's posse is still in the mountains after others of the outlaws and before the month ends it is likely a dozen lives will be sacrificed in the effort they are now making to enforce the laws. Not only are the people of this city and county alarmed, but those of Knox county as well, and nobody ventures out unarmed, and few unaccompanied by a friend. To-night word was received by a courier that in a fight near Salt Trace last night, four men were killed and half a dozen wounded. Reinforcements have gone out. A thousand armed men are now in the mountains and it is safe to say the men will be shot to death and the world will never hear of it. A fort is being built by one of the factions, and rumors of killing are too numerous to mention. The Sheriffs of three counties are arranging to make a combined attack against the outlaws, who swear they will never be taken. Governor Taylor will be asked for a regiment of militia.

MASKED ROBBERS.

They Enter a Saloon and Try to Stand Up a Crowd.

SACRAMENTO, March 24. — Three masked men entered Manuel G. Danreid's saloon this evening and commanded the saloon-keeper and those in the saloon to throw up their hands. Danreid ran to his bedroom, seized his rifle, when the men appeared and a struggle ensued. The masked men then fired three shots, one of the bullets striking Danreid's shoulder and inflicting a painful wound. The masked men escaped.

A Brave Man's Burial.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—The funeral of Captain E. S. McDonald took place to day. The Episcopal funeral service was conducted by Rev. John Gray, of the Church of the Advent. Captain Begley, who succeeded Captain McDonald as Commander of Company H, of the National Guard, was one of the few present who accompanied the deceased on his famous trip through thirteen States made by thirty-eight picked men of the old California Cadets.

They Used Their Molars.

SACRAMENTO, March 24.—This evening James Chinn, a colored barber, and Gus Johnson, colored, were shaking dice in a saloon, when a dispute arose, and the men had a terrible rough-and-tumble fight. In the struggle Johnson bit off Chinn's nose, and the latter grabbed and cut Johnson about the head, inflicting five or six wounds. Both men will probably be disfigured for life.

Many Arrivals.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—Another large fleet of vessels, chiefly coasters, sailed in to-day under northwest winds. Up to 6 o'clock twenty-two vessels had arrived.

SANTA MONICA NOTES.

A Day Among the Canons and Santa Monica Heights.

EDITORS HERALD—For variety of scenery and entertainment, few seaside resorts can compare with Santa Monica. In front of the town stretches the grand old Pacific ocean. The followers of Isaac Walton find here pleasant and profitable amusement. Weary of the rod, they may don the bathing suit and plunge into the surf, or, if they prefer, may take a spin over the billows in a sail or rowboat. If one wishes to combine pleasure with health-giving exercise, let him spend a day in the cañons which skirt the town on the north. Leaving Santa Monica drive in a northerly direction two miles parellel to the ocean and you reach the "old adobe house" on the bluff." Looking down into the valley beneath, a scene of rare beauty meets the eye. Away to the right the Santa Monica Cañon winding along the foot-hills for three or four miles, then by a circiutous route stretching gradually up the hills till in full view of the San Fernando Valley. To the left, at the mouth of the cañon, lies the little hamlet known as "Old Santa Monica." Last summer this place was dotted with tents, and preparations are being made on a still larger scale for the accommodation of visitors next season. A quarter of a mile up the left fork, called Rustic Cañon, is a branch of the State Forestry Department. It is in charge of Mr. Lyon and already they have a large assortment of all the principal forest trees and shrubs. This is a very beautiful cañon. Great branching sycamore and live oak trees, some of them many hundred years old, line the banks of the little rivulet that flows through it. In some places this stream, like many others in California, is "bottom side up."

Leaving the Forestry grounds, we ascend a winding steep incline, and soon reach the Santa Monica Heights. This is one of the most beautiful spots in all Southern California. Facing the south, one sees the curving shore reaching away beyond Ballona and Redondo. Still further, the Catalina Islands rise up in all their grandeur and sublimity, while away out to sea, as if it had drifted from its moorings, lies the Island of Santa Barbara. This island is only seen in clear days, as it lies about fifty miles or more from the coast. The Heights is artistically laid off in streets and avenues. Some of the main streets are aligned with ornamental trees. The town is waiting for inhabitants, but when the beauty and healthfulness of the location becomes generally known, it will, no doubt, take its place among the seaside towns of California. It is rumored that the Catholic Church is negotiating with the owners of the Heights with the view to erect a college there, and certainly no better site could be selected. Across the Heights lies another cañon, whose scenery and charms are not a whit behind those already mentioned. It is known as the Temescal Cañon. In all these cañons the sportsman may always carry his gun, for at any time he may "come up with a party of quail" or start a jack-rabbit, while foxes and wild cats are no strangers to these regions. Nor should the miner be unprepared for the practice of his profession, for along the streams are everywhere found very suspicious-looking pieces of quartz and strong indications of other valuable minerals.

Four miles or less from the Temescal Cañon is what Dr. A. F. Elliot, a noted Minneapolis scientist, declared to be the crater of an extinct volcano. This has been visited by very few, as the last part of the journey is quite difficult.

If any of your readers want an enjoyable day let them try the Santa Monica Canoñs. ONEWH OHASBEENTHERE.

VETERANS OF THE GRAY.

Their Proposed Home in Austin, Texas.

GRAND ARMY MEN FAVOR IT.

Speeches in Which the Burial of the "Old Grudge" is Recognized and Approved.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—There was a meeting at the Academy of Music tonight under the auspices of the New York Citizens' Committee, in aid of the National Confederate Soldiers' Home at Austin, Texas. General Barnum presided. Many Grand Army men were in the audience, including General Crittenden and General Carl Schurz. There were also numerous Confederate veterans present. Major Joseph H. Stewart, one of the directors of the Home, was the principal speaker. Among other things he said: "Sectionalism is being fast obliterated from the minds and hearts of men, and the foemen of twenty-five years ago now march shoulder to shoulder in the struggles of civil conflict. We rejoice that many thousands of Union veterans are now upon the pension rolls, and about 15,000 are maintained by the Government in comfortable homes, at an annual aggregate expense of about $100,000,000 and that they are the honored wards of the nation. But what may be done for the hapless Confederate soldier, who left the army and feebly shed his blood as a willing sacrifice upon the altar of a country that had no sponser at its baptism among the nations of the earth and which was destined to sink like one of the bright planets of the heavens never more to rise again. It might be an unwise, and possibly a dangerous precedent to aid, at the public expense, those who fought against the old flag, and the Southern men in both branches of our Congress, have expressed disapproval of the policy, but may we not find sympathetic hearts and generous hands to aid us with their bounty."

After reviewing the great commercial prospect of the South, its dependence upon the North, and the negro question, Stewart concluded. Much enthusiasm was shown in the proposed home.

Windom's Financial Record.

It will interest readers in New York as well as the West to know that Mr. Windom, Mr. Harrison's Secretary of the Treasury, is a bimetallist, but not a Bland dollar man. He voted under protest in 1878 for the Bland dollar bill. In the debate on that measure he said:

"I am in favor of the remonetization of silver, provided the dollar is equal to the gold dollar. I am in favor of expansion and inflation, but I want it to be an expansion of gold dollars."

Mr. Windom said further:

"I would much prefer that the coinage should cease at the end of two years if this dollar does not prove to be equal to the standard dollar of the commercial world. Any vote that I shall give to-day upon this bill and amendments shall be given with the hope at least that the silver dollar to be coined will be equal to the gold dollar. I am in favor of the remonetization of silver, provided the silver dollar is equal to the gold dollar.

"Several of the leading commercial nations have already adopted the gold dollar as the standard of value and others are rapidly tending in that direction. If we are to compete for the commerce of the world, and to trade on equal terms with these nations, we must adopt a similar measure of values. Whether the instrument by which values shall be measured be gold or silver makes no difference in my judgment, providing the standards are alike. If, as assumed by the Senator's question, that great instrument of trade and commerce known as the dollar, has no recognized value, and one thing may be called a dollar as properly as another, why waste 412½ grains? Why not call 206¼ grains a dollar and have twice as many of them?

"Your depreciated silver dollar may be made to pass as a dollar as far as our local commerce is concerned, but it will be the only dollar in use, and the moment you cross the water, and begin to trade with the other nations of the world, it will pass only at its real value. It will not be a dollar in the markets of Liverpool when the Senator's constituents and mine cross the ocean to sell their wheat in the markets of the world.

"The farmers of Minnesota have some twenty-five million bushels of wheat to sell this year. Its value at the place of sale will be measured by the gold price in Liverpool, while it will be paid for in the inferior coin of this country; it will be sold for gold in Europe and paid for in silver at home. If Congress shall shall authorize a dollar worth only ninety-two or ninety-five cents, the difference will have to be borne mainly by the producer.

"The Senator from Wisconsin smiles disapprovingly. I suppose he does not believe the story, but I tell him that the speculators, the middle men between the market in Liverpool and the wheat fields of Minnesota and Wisconsin will see to it that this margin between the gold dollar of England and the silver dollar of America finds its way into their own pockets. I am therefore ready to say, by this amendment, that if 412½ grains of silver will not make a dollar which shall be the equivalent of the commercial dollar of the world, I will add enough silver to make it so."

In concluding the debate he said:

"We are now brought face to face with the question whether we shall have the double or the single standard. I favor the former. I believe in the remonetization of silver, but most deeply regret that the Senate is unwilling to make a dollar of 420 grains, or at least give the country some assurance that if 412½ grains will not make a dollar worth one hundred cents, it shall be made so by future legislation. On this point, however, I think we may trust our successors or ourselves when it shall be demonstrated that 412½ grains is not enough to constitute a full equivelent to the gold dollar of the commercial world.

"Mr. President, I am thoroughly convinced that this measure, as we are about to pass it, will prove a disappointment to both friend and foe. It is not freighted with a tithe of the blessings anticipated by its advocates, nor of the evils prophesied by its enemies. It is, in my judgment, neither the panacea for all our financial troubles nor a Pandora's box from which should spring unnumbered and immeasurable ills. I fear it will not give life and vigor to our prostrate industries, nor employment and food to the unemployed and hungry. But I am hopeful it will neither tarnish our national honor nor further paralyze our national commerce.

"In my judgment the most important question is, how can we most speedily dispose of the question in such a way as will give the country financial rest and quiet?

"With no very sanguine expectations of the measure itself in its present form, but hoping that I may contribute something toward the settlement of this question, I shall vote for the bill."

It is not likely that Secretary Windom will coin more silver dollars than the law compels him to.—[N. Y. Herald.

Cold Storage Oranges.

A small consignment of California oranges was received at the auction rooms of R. M. Montgomery & Co., the tea auctioneers, yesterday. The consignment was not sent to be sold on this market, but was intended to demonstrate the practicability of "preparing" oranges and other fruit of a perishable nature for transportation in such a way that they will not decay.

The oranges are branded as "Sunnyside," and are entirely seedless. They were shipped by B. B. Barney, of Riverside, San Bernardino county, Cal., to Chicago, in the course of a regular shipment to that market, and were then forwarded to New York by express. When the boxes were opened the oranges were found to be in perfect condition right through the boxes, not a single sign of decay being visible. The plan was conceived by Mr. Pierce, of Chicago, who represents a number of capitalists interested in the subject of fruit transportation. The plan of preparing the fruit for shipment is a secret, but Mr. Pierce claims that by it he can guarantee the arrival of the fruit in as good a condition as it was shipped. The fruit is prepared for shipment in a warehouse and then is shipped on refrigerator cars especially prepared for the purpose, and the fruit can be carried any distance within any reasonable time without damage.

Mr. Pierce further stated that the plan proved very successful last season, 125 carloads having been shipped from Southern California to Chicago and the Northwest, and orders had been given for building 200 additional refrigerator cars to be run over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe system.

On being asked whether it was the intention of the company to introduce California oranges on the Eastern markets in large quantities, Mr. Pierce replied that the high railroad rates seemed to him an obstacle to a very profitable business in that direction, and he declared further, that his object in bringing the fruit on to New York was to demonstrate to the dealers in and growers of Florida oranges that the process could be applied to Florida oranges as effectually as to California. "The work has been done," he said, "as a preliminary measure to introducing the system into the South, to let the growers see that there is no necessity for their receiving only $1 per box for their fruit on account of decay."

Mr. Pierce stated, in reply to a question, that the consignment was, by no means, a specially selected one.—[N. Y. Mail and Express.

A Snake 43 Years Old.

Pompey Hooker, an old colored farmer who lives in the eastern portion of the county, and who, last year, in a battle with rattlesnakes, killed eleven of the reptiles, was in Memphis, Tenn., some time ago. From him an Appeal reporter learned of another and still more interesting encounter which occurred during last week. Pompey is a great coon hunter, and on Wednesday morning, in company with two others, he started out on a big hunt. Several racoons were caught, and the trio, after having hugely enjoyed the sport, were preparing to return home, when suddenly the dogs bayed again. Approaching near to where they were barking, the three concluded, as they had their guns with them and were tired chopping down trees, to wait until daylight and shoot the game. As it was only a short while until dawn, a fire was accordingly built, and while his companions produced a deck of cards with which to while away the time, Pompey stretched himself on the ground for a short nap. Somehow the old fellow could not sleep, and after a short while he picked up his gun, and lighting a pine torch he walked over to where the dogs were. Instead of a tree and a coon he found the hounds scratching and tearing up the earth at the base of a hollow rock. Thinking that some animal had taken refuge in the bowlder, he jammed the blazing torch into the crevice. The old negro's terror was great, when, instead of the growls which was expected, he heard a terrible rattling, such as experience had taught him the rattlesnake gives only when about to strike. Pompey's fight with the deadly reptiles last year had left an impression on his mind, and he was preparing to run, when, as he says, "One of the biggest rattlers you ever heard of slid outen' that hole and jumped at me. He would a' got me, shore, but one o' the dogs grabbed his tail an' gin it a flirt." Just then another snake, "bigger than the udder," crawled out and made a leap for Pompey, who "fetched him a swipe with the torch," and then grabbed his gun. By this time the first snake was rattling and striking, and, with one hand holding the torch and the other the gun, the old negro "blazed away," but missed. Steadying himself, he took better aim and fired the second time, and with better results, for the reptile's head was torn completely off. At this moment the other snake struck Pompey's foot, burying its fangs in the toe of his shoe, but, luckily, so near the end that no damage was done. Again the pine torch came down, and this time on the snake's head. That ended it, and as the old negro's companions came rushing to the scene they found him carefully examining his feet, hardly able to understand that he had escaped unhurt. If what the darkies say is true, and Uncle Pompey is one of the wealthiest and most reliable colored farmers in the county, the two snakes killed were the largest and oldest of any of their kind ever found. They say one had forty and the other thirty-six rattles. As a snake is 3 years old before a rattle appears, and as one is then added for each year, one was 43 and the other 39 years of age.

Alien Capital in the Territories.

The Senate Committee on Mines and Mining have reported on the resolutions authorizing the committee to investigate the subject of the investment of foreign capital in mines in the Territories, to the effect that the amount of capital so invested by aliens is $20,503,750, and the dividends paid thereon $4,737,800. It may be fairly inferred, says the report, that the mines in which this alien capital is invested have produced not less than $50,000,000, of which the greater portion has been expended in this country for labor, machinery, etc. During the past thirty years aliens have purchased mining claims, and in some instances they have turned out valuable. In that time, no injurious results have been produced thereby, but, on the contrary, the capital brought into the Territories by aliens and by citizens of the United States alike has facilitated the development of the country, aided in supporting population, enabled farmers to find a market and all other industries to prosper.

SAMOAN BEAUTIES.

Rule of the Village Queens; Their Attire and Graceful Dances.

The women still love to dress a la mother Eve, in nothing but the natural products of the native bush. Around their throats they wind necklaces formed of a dry scarlet berry or shells sewed upon a strip of cloth. Sometimes a fringe made from the rib bones of a fish is attached to this necklace, and often a spiral boar's tusk forms a handsome though barbaric ornament. Like their civilized sisters the Samoan belles will endure any amount of pain and discomfort in order to be in the fashion, but, unlike them, they enjoy leap year privileges all the time and exercise the right of choice, for time or for eternity, with perfect freedom from a suspicion of unmaidenliness.

The Samoan women, as a rule, are good looking, but every village boasts its "beauty." "Tampoo" is the Samoan name given to the village queen. Generally she is the ruling chief's own daughter, or one adopted by him. She is at all times a girl of high rank in the place itself, or in that of her parentage. From the first day of her instalment to the day of her departure, marriage, elopement or dethronement for bad behavior (which in quite recent times was effected with a club), she is virtually the queen of the place. It is she who receives strangers on arrival in her town, makes kava for them, and personally sees to their comfort and entertainment. Never, from one year's end to the other, is she permitted to be out of sight of her attendants. When abroad she is invariably accompanied by as many of her youthful companions as are available for the service. They follow her in single file wherever she goes. She heads all processions, and visits and takes the leading part in all "swas" or native dances.

Her attire on gala-days is of the gayest description that her town can afford, and everything is ungrudgingly sacrificed that can add to the glorification of her personal appearance. It is she, on these occasions, who has mainly to uphold the prestige of the town. It is only when dressing for any ceremony that she appears to have no will of her own. On such occasions, a long time before the commencement of the ceremonial, the old women take entire possession of her. On them devolves the exercise of the mysteries of the Samoan boudoir. Everything is done for the proud damsel, who stands patiently suffering any amount of coercion, one tithe of which she would not permit for a second were it not part of her duty as the beauty of the town. She is first taken in hand by two or three of her attendants, who briskly shampoo her all over with sweet-scented oil until her warm-colored skin shines like satin. Another will energetically brush her jet black locks, and afterward plat or otherwise arrange them in the manner that the combined wisdom of the old people, assisted by the suggestions of twenty or thirty of her youthful companions, may dictate. She will then be ready to entertain "the stranger" and prepare for him the kava.

Above all things, the native women excel in the art of dancing and posturing. The most popular dance among them is the "Siva," which is performed by four or five maidens, to the accompaniment of a tuneless song and drumming on the tom-tom. It consists of posturing and movements of the body and hands, which are made in unison and in time with music. Some of the figures are executed while standing erect upon the feet, but in most of them the dancers sit cross-legged upon strips of matting spread upon the ground. The postures are many and varied. Sometimes the right hand rests upon the neighbor's left shoulder, and left hand upon the dancer's knee. One position is with the right hand spread upon the ground in front, and the fingers of the left hand touching the bicep's of the dancer's right arm. Another is a more thoughtful attitude. The right hand supports the left elbow, while the left cheek rests upon the index finger of the left hand. Of all the graceful Samoan dancers none can compare with the daughter of Patua, one of Mataafa's most prominent chieftains. Her movements are so exquisitely graceful and full of such dream-like motion that Europeans and natives alike have combined in naming her "The Dream."—[Exchange.

A Mare That Hunts Coons.

A citizen of Indiana has a bay mare, says an exchange, that has a strange propensity for an animal of the equine species. She hunts 'coons. The mare can "tree" a coon as well as the best trained 'coon dog. She can track a 'coon by the scent alone as accurately and as truly as a fox hound. She also can track a 'coon in the snow. When the animal trees a raccoon she never leaves the tree, but will neigh and paw around the tree. She will wheel around and kick the trunk of the tree, and will keep up her neighing, kicking and pawing until Mr. Yocum arrives to capture the 'coon. She has learned to locate a 'coon tree. When going through the woods the mare will stop and smell the trees. If there is a 'coon's den in tree, she will begin her neighing, and never leaves the tree until assistance comes to capture the 'coon. Mr. Yocum often rides over on his "'coon mare," and never fails to return with two or three new 'coons strapped across the back of his saddle. The mare seems to delight in hunting the 'coon, and will start for the woods in a steady canter when the master gets into the saddle with his gun on his shoulder and an ax strapped to his belt. When she strikes a trail she will drop her nose down to the ground and start off at a dog trot. Mr. Yocum simply drops the rein and allows the mare to keep on her unerring trail. When approaching the game, she pricks up her ears, and shows by her frisking that she scents a 'coon. Mr. Yocum would not part with the mare at any price.

A Southern shipyard seems to be one of the early eventualities. The enterprise, it is reported, is headed by Mr. Jacob Reese, of Pittsburg, and connected with it is to be a great steel plant at Sheffield, Alabama, where the largest and most complete plate mill in the country is to be established—one capable of rolling the largest and heaviest shipplate required in modern ship building. Provision will also be made for the manufacture of beams, girders, channels, angles and other structural shapes, and as soon as the shipyard can be established on the Southern coast, all material required for the construction of steel bottomed ships can be bought and delivered for less there than the raw material can now be delivered at the Delaware yards. Steel-bottomed merchant ships are now in demand, and it is expected that the new company will meet with immediate success.—[Financial and Mining Record.

LOS ANGELES GRAIN CROPS.

The Greatest Showing For Any Season to This Time.

One of the HERALD staff has been somewhat diligent of late in interviewing prominent people from all parts of the country as to the crops being planted in the several districts. The results of these inquiries have been given to the public piecemeal as the data was obtained. It may not be out of the way to summarize the situation at this juncture. The wheat and barley crops are all in now, and the plows are laid away for a time. Los Angeles farmers have learned many important lessons in the past decade. Time was when the grangers of this section did the reverse of making hay while the sun shines, and only sowed grain when the rain was falling. A plow never went into the ground until the first heavy rain of the season had put in an appearance. The moment the top of the ground became the least bit dry, the complacent farmer left the plow idle in the furrow and hied him away to the city to load up with liquidized product of the cereal crops instead of sowing seed for the approaching harvest. He never turned a sod again until another good downpour came. He was the most atheistic loafer in the world, and took it for granted that Providence was a malign influence and would not send rain, rather than a benign one, which was sure to send the rain even on the undeserving unjust man as well as on the deserving just one.

Now all this is changed. The Los Angeles granger has got faith in an overruling Providence, and is persuaded that the early and the latter rain will come in due time, and that the harvest will follow his industrious efforts to put in a crop. So, early last fall, the plows were out turning in grain under a dry sod and cloudless sky. Then came the early rains and the husbandmen saw the benign work of Providence seconding his efforts. Later followed a long period of drought, but there was no slacking of pace on the part of wise farmers. The work of plowing and sowing went right on in all quarters, and then came light but refreshing showers during the early part of March, making a fair crop of grain pretty certain. But the down pour of last week varied from six inches as the least precipitation from the storm to a full foot of rain poured out upon the thirsty earth. Under the magical influence of this blessed dispensation the young blade of both wheat and barley has imbibed the most robust sort of life, and it is now shooting up on all the plains as if under a miraculous influence. The weather is cool, but not chilly. There is neither forcing nor stopping of the vegetable growth being experienced, but a steady, healthy, vigorous growth is the order of the day.

THE ACREAGE SEEDED.

Beginning at the lower end of the county it is learned that, on the San Joaquin ranch, where heretofore the largest acreage devoted to the cereal crops was 1,000 acres, this year there are 6,000 acres seeded. East of the Santa Ana river there are at least 25,000 acres seeded to wheat and barley. The Laguna Farming Company, just east of the city, has somewhat over 8,000 acres, mostly wheat, in the ground. In the Mesopotamia country of Los Angeles county, that is the district lying between the Old San Gabriel and the Santa Ana river, it is difficult to learn what acreage is seeded. Taking in the Garden Grove and Westminster districts, it is a wide stretch of fertile country. There is in all probability over 50,000 acres seeded to cereals in the trict. This gives about 90,000 as the acreage in the southeast end of the county. From the Los Angeles river to the Santa Monica mountains, it is estimated that upwards of 75,000 acres of wheat and barley is seeded. From Pasadena to Pomona there is probably not less than 100,000 acres devoted to these cereals. In the Newhall and San Fernando Valleys there is at least 50,000 acres seeded to these crops. The gross result, by these figures, is 315,000. That is a very nice showing for a county which does not particularly pride itself on its exploits in grain-growing.

A Deaf-Mute Killed.

Deaf people seem to have a great partiality for getting in places where their infirmity is liable to be a source of danger to them, at least so the railroad records show, for a big percentage of the people run down while walking on the track are deaf-mutes. Another case was added to the number yesterday at Sumner resulting in the death of a man named Rand. The switch engine was working down the yards, and the engineer seeing a man walking down the track ahead, gave the customary danger signals of ringing the bell and whistling. The unfortunate individual did not turn his head aside, however, and before the locomotive could be stopped he was run down and mutilated in a horrible manner, resulting in almost instantaneous death. Beyond the facts that his name was Rand, and that he was deaf and dumb, no other particulars could be obtained about him.

Santa Catalina Island.

Catalina Island, as a pleasure resort, is appreciated only by those who have experienced a day's fishing, a moonlight ride on the beautiful bay, a bath in the refreshing water, or a tramp across the hills with a rifle.

In failing to visit this wonderful place, with the attractions that have been added through the enterprise of Ford & Myer, who have refitted the hotel and increased the boating and bathing facilities, you surely make a terrible mistake. The hotel is now open. The new steamer Hermosa is making regular trips as per schedule. See advertisement.

Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10 cents, 50 cents and $1 00. If your Lungs are sore, Chest or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by C. F. Heinzeman.

Art Exposition.

The ladies of Los Angeles now have an opportunity, never before offered them, of attending a real art exposition of decorative draperies direct from the Boston art rooms, and which are offered for sale at Boston prices. Mrs. M. L. Steves will be in the city for a few days only, representing A. T. Fogg, of Boston, in imported art embroidery and decorative draperies, and can be found at the Hollenbeck Hotel, room 15. New novelties in art embroidery will be taught by Mrs. Steves.

The Largest Gold Mines in the World.

At Lead City, near Deadwood, Lawrence county, Dak., are located the largest gold mines and mills in the world, the "Homestake." The ore bodies mined by this company show a working face from 200 to 400 feet wide, sinking to an inexhaustible depth. Six hundred stamps, crushing 20,000 cubic feet of rock every twenty-four hours, drop incessantly, day and night, in the mills, without an intermission even for the Sabbath. During the ten years in which the mines of the Homestake combination have been operated they have produced about $26,000,000 in bullion, and paid over $5,000,000 in dividends to stockholders.—[P. F. McClure in Harpers.

A Cheerless Prospect.

"I feel very apprehensive and dejected," said the umbrella, as it dropped limply into the hat rack.

"Why so?"

"Oh, I always feel badly at this time of the year."

"For what reason?"

"Because this is lent, you know, and that old joke—ugh," and it shuddered dismally, scattering great muddy tear drops all over the carpet.—[Merchant Traveler.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Nelson Acrobats at the Los Angeles.

The great Nelson vaudeville and acrobatic entertainment gave its initial performance at the Los Angeles Theater last night. There are things good, bad and indifferent in the show. Celemon, the eccentric song and dance man is one of the best. Neiman, the ventriloquist with his dummies is good. Campbell and Nibbs in their German and Irish extravaganza are the most laughable team in the show. The Nelson family in their acrobatic feats are clever, but the "falling column" act, the most difficult thing advertised, was, to use an entirely original phrase, conspicuous for its absence. It is promised for a future night in the week. The show holds the boards all the week.

In another portion of the HERALD today may be found more theatrical news, including some mention of The King's Fool.

On the Influence of Cold

—IN THE—

Production of Diseases of the Lungs

—AND ON THE—

COMPARATIVE MERITS

—OF THE—

Different Plans of Treatment,

BY M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M. D., M. C. P. S. O., specialist in diseases of the Head, Throat and Chest, including the Eye, Ear and Heart.

The state of the atmosphere impresses itself directly on the mucous lining of the nasal passages, throat windpipe, bronchial tubes and air-cells of the lungs. Sudden changes in the temperature of the air are immediately felt over the whole of this extended surface. Coolness and humidity render the air irritating to the mucous membrane, irritation ends in congestion, and congestion is the first stage of inflammation—the parent of all those chronic catarrhal affections of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes, which ultimately end in cohsumption.

Nearly eighty per cent. of the cases of consumption begin by congestion of the mucous membrane of the nasal passages, throat and bronchial tubes produced by colds. To that extent, therefore, consumption springs directly from the damp and changeable weather. It is inflammatory and purely local in its early stages—quite as much so as inflammation of the eyes or quinsy of the throat, and must be treated in the same direct manner.

It is a rule of medical practice, established by ages of experience, that every disease which is local—that is to say, has its seat in any one organ or part of the body—requires for its cure the direct application of the remedies to such organ or part. When this can be done, the disease is generally curable, and when it cannot be done it is, if serious, generally fatal. The same mucous membrane is spread over the globe of the eye, lines the tear passages and internal surface of the nose, covers the throat, passes down the windpipe, and becomes the lining of the delicate and innumerable air cells of the lungs. When cold produces inflammation of the eye in one person and acute catarrh of the head in another, the cause, the disease and the membranes affected are alike in every respect. When cold produces a sore throat in one person and congestion of the lungs in another, there is no difference in the diseased action of the two cases, or in the principles of treatment required for their cure. It is mucous membrane that is involved in both cases.

But many treat these similar diseases of same membrane widely different, and, as a consequence, cure one and fail to cure the other. For the eye they apply eyewashes and ointments directly to the inflamed parts and are generally successful. In the nose is applied nothing to the diseased parts and catarrh becomes seated and is thought to be incurable. For an inflamed throat they prescribe gargles and applications to the throat, and generally cure. For the same disease a little lower down—in the windpipe and bronchial tubes—they make no direct application, but dose the patient's stomach, and, as a consequence often fail to cure. Would it not be foolish to pretend to cure an inflamed eye or a sore throat by dosing the stomach? Well, it is just as great a mistake to treat catarrh and diseases of the air passages of the lungs by dosing the stomach alone.

The fatality of lung diseases is not due, as many people suppose, to the malignity of their nature or the importance of their breathing organs. It is the inevitable result of gross neglect of the means of cure within the reach of all. Properly treated by direct medication, lung diseases are as curable as other maladies.

If any satisfactory result were attained by constitution treatment alone in lung cases—if they cured considerable proportion of such cases—it might reasonably be doubted whether the direct treatment of inhalation could accomplish better results. But the fact is, they do but very little good. Even in hospitals, where the diet, exercise and general habits, as well as their medical treatment, are entirely under the control of physicians, very few well defined diseases of the lungs can be shown to have been cured by the stomach treatment out of every thousand cases so treated. It has been so uniformly unsuccessful that most people have come to regard consumption as equivalent to the hand of death! In giving it up, therefore, those having lung diseases abandon nothing, save the certainty of an earthly grave for a hope of life and health.

Now, look at the results attained by the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation. In all ordinary cases of catarrh, bronchitis and asthma, improvement immediately takes place, and they go on to complete cure. In consumption the disease is more obstinate, but these cases ultimately get well. Even in desperate cases benefits always result from inhalations, and we can point to hundreds of such cases which were given over to die and pronounced hopeless, and yet recovered and are now living. These facts are easily certified to by thousands of living witnesses at the present day.
